

Anthropological field research in the Philippines 2019

Open call for applications

Department of Sociology, Andragogy and Cultural Anthropology in collaboration with Social Science Research Laboratory announces an open competition for a field research in the Philippines. The research will be conducted during the Easter season (most probably between 14th and 26th of April 2019). Preferred topics of study are local practices of tattooing and crucifixion.

Further information will be provided to interested applicants. Apart from intensive participation in the field research the students are expected to collaborate on writing a research paper with the team supervisor.

The deadline of the applications is 26th of October 2018. Please send your motivation letters on following e-mail address: lucie.podstatova@upol.cz

An informational meeting and the competition will take place in November 2018 (applicants will be informed about a specific date and place).

